

CALL FOR PAPERS

DOCTORAL THESIS WORKSHOP

MARCH 19, 2015

CARLETON UNIVERSITY

The Institute of Political Economy at Carleton University will host a PhD Thesis Workshop on March 19, 2015. We welcome submissions from doctoral students currently working on a dissertation chapter or proposal on any issue related to political economy. This is a great opportunity for students to practice articulating their research to a diverse audience and will provide students with valuable feedback from faculty and graduate colleagues for consideration moving forward.

The Institute of Political Economy was established in 1989 and was built on a strong tradition of interdisciplinary studies at Carleton. It joins together Geography and Environmental Studies, History, Journalism and Communication, Law and Legal Studies, Political Science, the School of Public Policy and Administration, Sociology and Anthropology, the School of Social Work and the Institute of Interdisciplinary Studies. Submissions from these and related faculties are welcome.

Students will be asked to provide a short presentation of their work and act as a discussant for another participant. Participants and participating faculty will read all accepted chapters and proposals prior to the workshop in order to facilitate quality discussion and feedback.

Applicants are asked to provide a 250-word abstract of a dissertation chapter or proposal that they would like to bring to the workshop by January 15, 2015. Students will be notified of their acceptance one week after the close of submissions. If your abstract is accepted, you will be expected to submit your final draft chapter or proposal to the workshop organizers no later than February 26, 2015 to provide participants enough time to read and comment on all papers.

Please include in your submission:

- Your name, school and department
- Your advisor's name
- Your current status in your program (year, or whether you are ABD)
- A 250 word abstract of the chapter or proposal
- A brief (150 to 250 word) description of your dissertation project if you are submitting a chapter

Please send your application to ipcarleton.workshop@gmail.com.

Please direct any questions to the same email address.

*Participants are expected to cover the costs of travel to and from the workshop.

This event is made possible thanks to the generous contributions of our official co-sponsors: the Department of Geography and Environmental Studies, the Department of Political Science, the Law and Legal Studies Department and the International Political Economy Network at the University of Ottawa.